ABSTRACT

The tour guide was developed to assist classroom teachers in planning hands-on activities to complement and extend the work of the classroom. Each page lists information about a different institution or industry in the Washington, D.C. area that can be toured. Information includes the name and address of the place to be visited, name of a person to contact for information, recommended grade level, subject areas for classroom correlation, what is available to be seen, visiting hours, age restrictions, tour prices, facilities available, and suggested preparation of students before the tour. FOREWORD

This Tour Guide has been developed to assist the busy classroom teacher as he plans hands-on activities to complement and extend the work of the classroom.

The document will never be complete, for there will always be room for new sites as teachers and students discover them and send us data. New entries will be forwarded to Project personnel at regular intervals so that notebooks can be updated.

Please keep the information coming!
